Craigdarroch College offers films on Japan each weekday at lunchtime for the rest of the month. The hour-long showings start at 12.30 in the college seminar and lounge (rooms 208-209, just above the coffee shop). There's a new program every second day.

DR. CHET LAMBERTSON (English), chairman of the local branch of the Humanities Association, invites prospective members and others with an interest to the group's next meeting on the evening of January 20. Professor Roy Daniels of UBC will speak on Milton's Paradise Lost, and on the present-day relevance of the poet's views on sex, space travel, education, drugs and rebellion. The lecture begins at 8.00 p.m. in the Lansdowne dining room. Coffee and discussion will follow.

The theatre department, the faculty of education, and the Institute of Adult Studies will pool their resources later this month for a conference on "Drama in Education". It runs from January 23 to 25, with registration open to all who are interested in the relationship of drama to human development. Registration (for a fee of $10) opens at the Phoenix Theatre at 9.00 a.m. January 23. Details are available from the conference chairman, PROFESSOR RICHARD COURTNEY (theatre), president of the Canadian Child and Youth Drama Association.

Recent additions to the University's collection of prints will be on display in the MacLaurin lobby from January 30 on. The current exhibition, on tour under the auspices of the British Council, shows William Blake's illustrations to the Book of Job in all stages of preparation.

The Father, a sombre drama that is widely considered to be Strindberg's greatest work, will be the theatre department's first production of the seventies. It will be presented at the Langham Court Theatre, in association with the Victoria Theatre Guild, from January 31 to February 7. The director is DR. WANDALIE HENSHAW (theatre), with colleagues JOHN KRICH and PATRICIA LEITH in the leading roles. Tickets are $2, with a half-price student rate from Sunday to Thursday. Call local 410 to make reservations before the box office opens at Eaton's on March 28, or write to Langham Court at Box 531.
